| | Many dams have been built along the Brandywine River during the 18th and 19th centuries, blocking migratory fish, including American shad, from their spawning grounds. The Brandywine Conservancy has conducted research on ways to restore the Shad to the Brandywine and Robert Lonsdorf will speak to our group about the relationships he has created with dam owners and his research on options for providing fish passage and restoration on neighboring rivers. | |
